72% of patients say they are worried about their IBD, even when in remission.

52% of patients feel that IBD negatively affects their education.

Caregivers of children with IBD, on average, miss an additional week of work compared to those without.

52% of patients feel that IBD negatively affects their education.

People with IBD lose up to 20 days of family and recreational time every year due to their illness.

68% of the total cost burden of IBD is the societal cost (non-healthcare related).

Paediatric Inflammatory Bowel Diseases (PIBD) are chronic diseases of the bowel and intestine affecting children and include Crohn’s Disease and Ulcerative Colitis.

- Loss of working days
- Hidden costs of PIBD
- High cost to society
- Negative impact on education
- Loss of family time

@IBD_World
#MakeTheInvisibleVisible