

Advancing paediatric digestive health together

Join a global community of experts in paediatric gastroenterology, hepatology and nutrition

Why become an ESPGHAN member

Be part of a leading scientific community shaping the future of paediatric digestive health worldwide.

- Contribute to advancing science, education and clinical practice
- Connect with a global network of experts and peers
- Access high-quality education, guidelines and resources
- Play a role in improving children's health outcomes globally

2,000+
members

100+ countries

Your membership benefits

Education & Knowledge

- Access to leading scientific guidelines and publications
- High-quality training, courses and congresses
- Continuous professional development opportunities

Research & Science

- Opportunities to contribute to research initiatives
- Collaboration within expert working groups
- Participation in shaping future clinical standards

Community & Network

- Connect with a global multidisciplinary community
- Engage in committees, special interest groups and initiatives
- Build long-term professional collaborations

Visibility & Impact

- Contribute to advancing paediatric health globally
- Opportunities to present, publish and share expertise
- Be part of a recognised and influential scientific society

A community for diverse expertise

ESPGHAN brings together global professionals, from Europe and beyond, across clinical care, research, education and policy, including:

-  Clinicians and healthcare professionals
-  Researchers and scientists
-  Dietitians and allied health professionals
-  Trainees and early-career professionals
-  Advocates and partners engaged in child health

Flexible ways to engage

-  Individual membership
-  Active participation in committees and working groups
-  Opportunities to contribute to education and research initiatives
-  Engagement across congresses, training and global initiatives

Join ESPGHAN
and be part of a community improving children's lives globally

ESPGHAN Office

-  office@espghan.org
-  +41 (0)22 900 04 01
-  www.espghan.org/join-the-network